BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THE FORD'S BLACK DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown. The liver is the great filter of the body. It filters out of the blood all the poisons and impurities which enter it. If the liver is neglected, the blood becomes impure and the body suffers. The liver is the great filter of the body. It filters out of the blood all the poisons and impurities which enter it. If the liver is neglected, the blood becomes impure and the body suffers.

The healthy action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and violent contagion results. Timely treatment with The Ford's Black Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of The Ford's Black Draught.

Gatwick's Photography

By HARRIET JACKSON

Copyright, 1904, by K. M. Whitehead

"I beg your pardon," said Gatwick. Miss Willard raised her voice. "I asked you," she shouted, "how much money you make a day?" "It depends on the day," answered Jack Gatwick rather shortly. Miss Willard flushed. "I beg your pardon," she said in turn. "I did not realize how rude my question sounded."

"It's all right," said Gatwick affably. "You see, I thought you might be the tax collector, and with tax collectors it is best to be noncommittal." Miss Willard laughed merrily. "You see, it's this way," she explained. "I must leave this delightful place to-morrow and go to a horrid fashionable resort, where you have to dress up all the while. I have picked out a lot of nice nooks here, and I want to be photographed in them as a souvenir. Now, it will take all day, but there won't be many pictures, and I don't want to ask you to lose money by wasting a whole lot of time."

"Time is money," quoted Gatwick, "but sometimes it isn't very much money. Shall we say $3 a day and found?"

"That's awfully cheap," she agreed, "and I'm glad I found you."

"Then," he countered, "I shall be well found. Found, you know, means feed for man and brute."

She waved a hand toward the big red barn.

"Put the wogon there," she commanded, "and turn the horse out in the pasture. He looks as though he would enjoy a day off."

"I only paid eighteen for him," apologized Gatwick. "You should have seen him when I got him. You know, fainter photographs are not able to live blooded stock to haul abandoned grocery wagons about the country."

She looked suggestively toward the barn. It occurred to her that this traveling photographer was growing familiar on short acquaintance. Gatwick took the hint and started the wogon. Twenty minutes later he again approached his employer.

"She rose to her feet. 'Come on,' she said shortly, and they started across the road and over the meadow beyond. She felt a little sorry that she had checked Gatwick's jokes, but he soon recovered his self-possession, and again they were chatting as old friends."

Then began a day that will live in Gatwick's memory. Miss Willard was a most admirable subject, and they went from nook to nook, where she unconsciously fell into the most admirable poses. Almost before he knew it he had exhausted the dozen plates with which he had started out, and a long trip across the fields was necessary to obtain a fresh supply.

They got to the house about dinner time and had their meal there, though Miss Willard insisted that this last day she must have a picnic lunch even if it were only for 5 o'clock tea.

When they set forth again in addition to the camera Gatwick carried a heavy basket, and he was glad enough when at last Miss Willard decided that she had been photographed in every favorite resort and suggested that he make a fire and boil the water for tea.

By this time they were on thoroughly good terms. She had found that his easy philosophy did not make him familiar, and she was less quick to check his remarks, at the same time mentally deciding that traveling photographers were not only brighter, but handsomer, than the young men who formed the masculine element of the circle in which she moved.

An hour later she watched him drive down the dusty country road, and then, with a sigh, she turned indoors and began her packing, for she left on the late night train.

And that night Gatwick, bending over the tray in the improvised dark room formed by the traveling wagon, saw with delight the same dainty figure flash forth from plate after plate and realized that it was some of the best work he had ever done.

He was regarded as one of the best amateurs in the Camera club, and when he had broken down from overwork just at a time when he was about to finish the book that was to make him famous he put his knowledge of the art to practical use by faring forth into the country.

The fresh air had done wonders for him, and, as he wrote his chum, he was improving almost as much as the sick city horse. He was finishing off the book, too, and in the meantime he was making enough money photographing the country folk, their homes and horses to pay his way and a little more.

In the fall Gatwick's novel made the expected hit, and it was recognized as one of the "six best sellers" and the "two best novels."

Early in the spring there came out another book, following up the first success. This was a vacation romance, fairly replete with green fields and spicy woods. It far exceeded the hit of the first volume.

A few weeks later Jessie Willard received a special copy in an elaborate binding. In place of the half tone illustrations of the original edition were inserted color prints of the pictures Jack Gatwick had taken on their first day in the fields. With it went a note.

"Dear Miss Willard," it ran, "I beg that you will accept this little volume, of which you are the real inspiration. And if with it you will accept the author you will make him as happy as he was that day when he was merely the 'hired' man and you were the 'boss.' He has been your servant and your slave since then, and now that he has something more than himself to offer he humbly lays all at your feet, praying that you will be as gracious in town as you were in the country."

For three days Gatwick haunted the hallway that he might be at hand when the postman came. At last a dainty letter!

"Dear," he read, "why did you wait so long? Why did you not come when you had only yourself to offer, for since that happy day it was you that I needed most. You were cruel to keep me waiting so long, and in return I shall exact constant attendance." Jessie Gatwick guards her husband's health carefully, because, she says, it is dangerous to let him take to the road with a camera now that he has married his first victim.

Japanese Flower Arrangement.
The general ideas of Japanese floral arrangements may be summarized in this way:

Each setting of flowers must represent earth, air and water, or heaven, earth and man. In placing blossoms in a vase the vase and water are earth, the short stemmed flowers man and the tall ones heaven. The ramifications of this principle—the delicate, subtle meanings and properties—are infinite.

There are flowers which represent months and flowers which represent days, and as every Japanese house contains flowers they form a calendar for the initiated.

Every family of standing has artistically correct vases, vase holders and flowers, and the manner of entertaining an honored visitor is to ask him to arrange some flowers. The guest is governed by rigid laws.

He must not make too elaborate an arrangement, for that takes over an hour. He always orders to destroy what he has done to prove he considers it valueless. Only when he is urged by his host does he leave it. These are examples of the long list of restrictions. The Japanese knows them as he knows his language and his literature.—Harper's Bazar.

His Smart Trick.
"I suppose there comes to every man a desire to do something smart on an occasion," said the drummer as a sign took the place of his smile.

"Well, such a desire came to me as I was leaving a certain southern city after a week's stay. The waiter at my table had called me 'general' and been at great pains to care for me, and I made up my mind to reward him with a five dollar bill. It was a counterfeit with which I had been stuck, but I thought it would be the biggest kind of a joke to work it off on Bob."

"I had got a hundred miles away when I was arrested on a telegram for passing counterfeit money, and when taken back I was arraigned in a United States court and had to give bail and appear on three different occasions. I had a lawyer and other expenses, lost a good three weeks altogether and just escaped prison by the skin of my teeth. In addition to this I had to make good to the waiter, who sorrowfully shook his head when he received the money and said:

"It's sorry for you, general, but dis may be de means of savin' your contemptible soul from the gallus!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Opening Oysters.
"Talk about opening oysters," said the old pilot as he pushed back a heap of shells and asked the waiter for his check. "I never did see anybody to beat Benny Hawser. Benny could open oysters like magic. Never used a knife, neither. Said it was cruel."

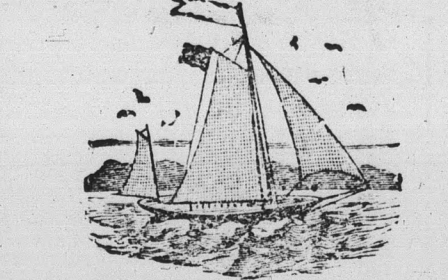

"How did he manage it?" asked the guileless young man from uptown. "Snuff, my boy," replied the old pilot solemnly, "thought real Scotch snuff, the strongest in the market. When he held a little of it in front of the oysters they sneezed the top shell off."

"Pooh!" said the young man. "Benny was all right in his way," observed the shrewd waiter, "but he wasn't a circumstance to a feller on a freight sloop that used to run between Fulton slip and Bridgeport. Why, when that feller'd come in here he'd take a dozen oysters and spread 'em in a row on that very table you're sittin' at. Then he'd begin to spin a sea yarn. I never heard another man like him. Then oysters, jest opened snuff months in astonishment at his whoppers. Then he'd take 'em by surprise, whip 'em out of their shells, sprinkle 'em with pepper an' vinegar an' swallow 'em."—New York Press.

The Saloon Problem In This City.

The saloon problem in Sonoma would seem to be very easily solved when the saloon men themselves want the City Trustees to limit the number of saloons. They are willing to pay a reasonable license (that the city's general fund may not be depleted and it is up to the city fathers to regulate this. Still the problem is not solved.

High license and the limiting of the number of saloons in communities has gone into effect in all the leading towns of the country. This is brought about as a general rule through the efforts of temperance workers, but here in Sonoma the saloon men themselves would bring about what the prohibitionists generally strive for and accomplish. They may be actuated by selfish motives and may want to monopolize the liquor trade, but this kind of monopoly is a good one for a community. Indirectly we are benefited by the saloon man's desire to limit the number of saloons, for a town now days is not elevated by the presence of too many liquor dispensing establishments. It loses in moral tone in proportion to the number of these places. It is true that the city derives much revenue from saloon licensees but it is foolish to argue that the more saloons the more revenue, for a few can be made to pay as much into the city's fund as many. This is optional with the Trustees.

The one flaw in the petition presented to the Board bearing on this matter was the fact that it did not designate the present number of saloons as the limit but limited the number to the seventeen saloons represented by the names of saloon men on the petition. The correct procedure would be to limit the number to those now in existence whether the names of the owners appear on the petition or not. Then as the present owners go out of business the number will in time be satisfactorily diminished.

The matter should be settled now while the iron is hot. The Trustees have a much easier problem before them than the Boards of other cities have, for there is usually factional friction between the saloon men and temperance people. Here both parties coincide in their views which makes the matter simple.

It is generally conceded that Sonoma is booming as there has been of late a greater amount of building than ever before and new enterprises are springing up in our midst. The cause of this stir is to be found mostly in the preparation necessary to accommodate the summer trade. We have not half accommodated them hitherto.

New houses, if they will not furnish increased accommodations, will at least give visitors to the valley a better impression of our style of living. Two of the new enterprises being started here—the ice plant and brewery—will essentially cater to the summer trade.

It would be a strange thing if we did not catch a few of the stray tourists who manage to escape from the precincts of Los Angeles. We should have many more eastern people here. The Southern Pacific officials report that one thousand people a day have entered the State for the past week.

As a special rate is in effect for the next seventy-five days a great army of tourists will come to this coast. The class of travelers is said to be home-seekers. It is safe to predict that the Southern California Octopus will hold on to as many as possible but this section should make some effort to get a few of them here. Who would not be enchanted coming to Sonoma Valley now, for right at this season it is the most beautiful of all.

The secret of success is advertising and until our people wake up to that fact this section will never be in line for recognition.

We cannot expect much free advertising. Outside of California Northwestern literature, any reference to Sonoma is hardly flattering. It is generally couched in such terms as "a sleepy old town" or a "quaint old historic place." At any rate there is no reference to our climate or soil other than that which would indicate indolence. Such words do not appeal to the wide-awake people of this age, who are rather attracted to the town or city which is referred to as thrifty, progressive or practical. The world is not seeking a "sleepy town" unless it is that part of the world that wants to rest or restore health. The money investing, producing part of the world wants a live community.

We have been sleepy long enough. Let us make known to the world that we are waking up. Do it by advertising. Get literature out that will flood the country or do as the town of Hollister does—insert an attractive little ad in some leading weeklies of the east. Los Angeles is what she is today through advertising. We should follow her example and can feel assured that we will not disappoint the home-seekers. One thousand people coming to California every day! Who will start a movement that will lead to our getting some substantial home-seekers from among these?

A FAMILY quarreled over a breakfast food and we naturally infer that they used "Force," but the inference is wrong. It was only oat meal.

THE investigation into the sudden death of Mrs. Stanford still goes on, but the case seems to be a very mysterious one.

"JOHN DOR" is passing worthless checks. In this instance the fellow should be dubbed "John Dough."

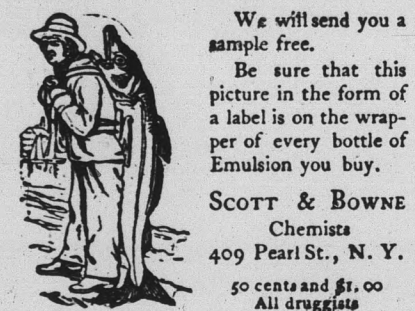

Tag sentiment which inspires the people of the Pacific Northwest in the preparation of the Lewis and Clark exposition is one in which every American must share.

Ordinance No. 78.

An Ordinance of the City of Sonoma, granting to S. Schocken and Oscar T. Weber, their heirs and assigns, the right to construct and equip, and for the period of twenty-five years to operate and maintain an electric street railroad upon certain streets in the City of Sonoma, and prescribing the terms, conditions and obligations thereof.

The Board of Trustees of the City of Sonoma do ordain as follows:

Whereas, all acts, conditions and things precedent to the granting of the franchise and grant hereinafter set forth, have heretofore happened, been done and performed in due form of law and in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act providing for the sale of street railroads and other franchises in municipalities, and providing conditions for the granting of such franchises to legislative bodies, and other governing bodies, and repealing conflicting acts, which became a law under constitutional provision without Governor's approval, March 14th, 1901, amended by a citation two (2), five (5) and seven (7) of said Act, approved March 6th, 1903.

Section 1. That a franchise for the term and period of 25 years be and the same is hereby granted to S. Schocken and Oscar T. Weber, their heirs and assigns, to construct, equip, operate and maintain a single track street railroad, together with all appurtenances, including the tracks, switches, spur tracks, stile tracks, turntables, turn-outs, poles, trolley wires, cross wires, feed wires and poles, appliances and apparatus necessary to operate and thereafter along, over, across and upon those certain streets and highways in the city of Sonoma, in the County of Sonoma, State of California, and within the corporate limits of the city of Sonoma, as follows, to-wit:

Commencing at the North end of Second street East or Berryessa street, at the North boundary line of the corporate limits of the City of Sonoma, and extending southerly along said street to its intersection with Spain or Vallejo street, thence westerly along said street to the intersection of the First street East, thence southerly along First street East to Napa or United States street, thence westerly along Napa or United States street to Broadway, thence southerly along Broadway to Jackson or Garay street and the South boundary line of the City of Sonoma.

Also, commencing at the intersection of Broadway with Napa or United States street, thence westerly along Napa or United States street to its intersection with West Fifth street and the West incorporated limits of the city of Sonoma.

Section 2. That the franchise shall be subject to the following conditions, restrictions and limitations under which said franchise and the rights, privileges, permits and immunities conferred and granted are as follows, to-wit:

First—The street railroad constructed and operated under this franchise shall be used for the transportation of passengers, freight, express matters and mails of the United States.

Second—That during the period of construction of said street railroad, such construction shall be carried on with the least possible obstruction to and interference with the traffic upon said streets, and the owner of said franchise will obey all reasonable regulations of the Board of Trustees in respect thereto, and that all work in connection with this railroad shall be done in a good and workmanlike manner.

Third—That immediately after the construction of said tracks shall have been completed, the streets occupied thereby shall be restored to as good condition as the same were before such construction.

Fourth—That the highest and best style or type of rails used in street railroad construction may be required to be used, in the discretion of the Board of Trustees, and that cars are to be supplied to carry passengers and freight.

Fifth—That the franchise shall be subject to the following conditions, restrictions and limitations under which said franchise and the rights, privileges, permits and immunities conferred and granted are as follows, to-wit:

First—That the franchise shall be subject to the following conditions, restrictions and limitations under which said franchise and the rights, privileges, permits and immunities conferred and granted are as follows, to-wit:

Ralph Ent has gone into the chicken business on a large scale. He already has 500 small chicks as a starter and expects to increase the number from time to time.

The "good old summer time" is looming up and already the town is filling up with strangers. A few of the summer species known as "fairies" have made their appearance and the country boys have begun to shy around in their rubber-tired rigs. "Hooligan" is thinking about ordering an automobile, which will knock the tops out of the wagonettes and dazzle the eyes of the summer girl.

Last Wednesday evening as Fred Howe, foreman of the Howe ranch west of town, was returning from this burg with a load of lime his team ran into a culvert and his wagon was overturned.

Mr. Howe was jogging along paying little attention to his horses and when he came to a turn the team went into the culvert and upset, throwing Mr. Howe out. He found himself submerged in the lime but uninjured. The horses ran away but were caught before they had very far.

FOSTER PURCHASES THE FAIR RANCH

California Northwestern's President Buys Lakeville Tract of 10,000 Acres.

Arthur W. Foster, President of the California Northwestern Railway, has purchased the famous Fair ranch extending from Lakeville to the southern boundary of this valley and comprising 10,000 acres.

Mr. Foster has also purchased from the Fair heirs the Berryessa Valley ranch in Napa county of 8,000 acres. The price said to have been paid is half a million dollars.

Mrs. Virginia Vanderbilt and Mrs. Olerichs were the owners of both ranches. The sale includes all the valuable live stock, farming implements, etc. The land in the Lakeville ranch is very rich and yields big returns every year.

Just what the object of the purchase is no one definitely knows. There is much speculation on this point.

DEATH TAKES A YOUNG MAN.

"Oh! what a shadow o'er the heart is flung
When peals the requiem of the loved and young."

Robert H. Waugaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Waugaman of San Francisco and grandson of the Hon. Robt. Howe, died at a San Rafael sanitarium on Saturday last. The young man was only twenty-one years of age and up to a few months ago he had every prospect for a bright future. He was exceptionally bright and ambitious and was a fine looking young man. Then came the dread malady consumption and robbed him of all the brightness the future had in store. He fought bravely at first but after he realized that the struggle was useless he resigned himself to his fate with a gentle calmness which characterized even his last hours.

Everything was done by the dear ones for their stricken son but to no avail. The funeral took place on Monday in San Francisco.

Supervisors Still Wrestling With the Problem.

The Board of Supervisors are still wrestling with the electric road problem and although Thursday was the day set for taking action in the matter of advertising for sale the franchise from this city to Santa Rosa nothing definite was done.

S. T. Coulter of Pomona Grange spoke to the Board in opposition to the matter, stating that the grange had passed a resolution asking the Supervisors not to grant franchises for railroads along county roads.

Mr. Coulter said it would be very detrimental to the farmers who had to traverse the proposed route and that the small sum which the county would get from the sale of the franchise would not be sufficient to oil even two miles of the county road for one year. Supervisor Austin declared that where the road is narrow private rights of way would have to be bought. Supervisor Button refused to support the measure until Preston R. Davis had filed a petition favorable to the project from the majority of property owners along the proposed route.

Action was deferred in the matter.

An ordinance was passed, however, finally granting O. C. Baldwin a franchise to operate an electric road from Sonoma to Embarcadero.

GLEN ELLEN

By Aurora.

Miss Emma Woods visited Santa Rosa Tuesday.
Mrs. J. V. Miner visited San Francisco one day last week.

Miss Bioletti is spending several days with friends in Santa Rosa.

Quite a number of people are suffering from the grip in our little town.

The Ladies' Aid met last Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. A. E. Gaige.

Miss N. M. Davidson was a guest at the Fremont residence Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weise are contemplating a trip to the World's Fair at Portland in June.

The Ladies Improvement Club met last Saturday. No business of importance was transacted.

Mrs. William Van DeWater was minding her husband's business the other day and came very near losing a finger.

Mrs. Wheeler, President of the W. C. T. U. of Santa Rosa, was a visitor at the Quein home Saturday and Sunday.

The ladies of the Congregational Church will give an entertainment next Thursday evening March 16th at Mayflower Hall. Which will consist of music, singing and a farce to be rendered by talent from the Home.

Captain and Mrs. Ward of Kenwood were passengers on the S. P. train Tuesday afternoon on their way to England to be absent two years. Several of their friends accompanied them as far as Glen Ellen.

The entertainment and lecture to be given by the Glen Ellen Grange promises to be a grand success. General Wagner will lecture on "Operation, Cooperation and Combination." Thomas Johnson will talk on the proposed new library in Glen Ellen. There will be music, violin and piano, by the Misses Lester and Elliot Trowbridge. Opening remarks will be made by Robt. P. Hill, Master of the Grange, and Miss E. Crepin will recite "Mr. Travers' First Ride," by R. Harding. At the conclusion of the program the Ladies' Aid Society will serve refreshments. Come one, come all, to Mayflower Hall.

SERIOUSLY STABBED DURING A QUARREL

Henry Castagnasso and M. Chelini Engage in Controversy Which Ends in Cutting Scrape

Henry Castagnasso and M. Chelini quarreled in front of the Victoria Saloon Wednesday night and the affair terminated in a cutting scrape in which Castagnasso was stabbed three times in the left shoulder.

The cause of the quarrel is said to have been over a bill which Chelini disputed. Castagnasso had been working for him and the bill he presented for his work Chelini thought too much. The controversy ended in hot words and Castagnasso is said to have suggested that they fight it out. There were blows exchanged and during the combat Castagnasso alleges he was stabbed three times with a sharp weapon in the hands of Chelini.

The fight drew the attention of passers by who separated the belligerents.

Castagnasso then discovered he was cut and ran over to the city hall where the firemen were in session and got an officer. Chelini was arrested as he was on his way home. He has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon and his bonds fixed at $1,000. The preliminary examination will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

It is understood that Castagnasso's condition is not serious.

Wedding of a Prominent Couple.

Miss Anita Hintz of Mill Valley was united in marriage Wednesday to Henry Gundlach, the well known member of the Gundlach-Bundschu firm of San Francisco.

The nuptials were solemnized at the picturesque home of the bride's mother in Mill Valley. The bride is a charming girl who has often visited here. Mr. Gundlach is a man of much standing in the business world and has a host of friends here who will join the "Index-Tribune" in congratulations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27, 1905.

Dear Pappa:

Mamma and me got home yesterday on time. We had a luvly journey and didnt get tired a bit. We never changed cars onct and saw all the luvly scenery on the denver and rio grand road in day time jee as the man said we wood and gee whiz the mountains was high. A man came with our car all the way and he took good care we had a nice time. When you cum home be shure you take the denver and rio grand tourist excursion car and you will have as good fun as we did and not cost much either. There office is at 625 Market street in San Francisco. If you will write there they will send you some nice picture books for nothing.

With love from your son

A LEPAGE PICTURE.

The Work That Brought the Artist Public Recognition.

The label on a certain spring water still in use was designed by Du Maurier, who was probably not over-paid for it, and a New York artist who has since gained distinction owed out the hardest part of his early struggles by designing advertisements for a commercial house. There have been many more perhaps, but the most conspicuous on record is Bastien Lepage, who through this very fact was forced into fame. He was pursued by unmerciful disaster through his youth in his efforts to study art. His mother worked in the fields to keep a sickly boy at school. At fifteen he went alone to Paris, starved for seven years, painted without success, but still not satisfied. He had just finished a picture to send to the Salon when Paris was besieged, and he rushed with his comrades to the trenches.

On the first day a shell fell into his studio and destroyed his picture, and another shell burst at his feet, wounding him. He was carried home and lay ill and idle for two years. Then he returned to Paris and, reduced to absolute want, painted cheap fans for a living.

One day a manufacturer of some patent medicine ordered a picture from him to illustrate its virtues. Lepage, who was always sincere, gave his best work to this advertisement. He painted a landscape in the April sunlight. The leaves of tender green quivered in the breeze. A group of beautiful young girls gathered around a fountain from which the elixir of youth sprang in a bubbling stream. Lepage believed there was real magic in it.

"Let me offer it at the Salon?" he asked his patron.

The manufacturer was delighted. "But first paint a rainbow arching over the fountain," he said, "with the name of my medicine upon it."

Lepage refused.

"Then I will not pay you a sou for the picture."

The price of this picture meant bread for months, and the pain of the need needed bread. The chance of admission to the salon was small. He hesitated. Then he silenced his hunger and carried the canvas to the salon. It was admitted.

Its great success insured Lepage public recognition, and his later work gained him a place among the greatest of living artists.

PROVERBS OF MEXICO.

The noise is more than the powder—the Mexican way of saying it is "hot air."

When it rains, we all get wet—the Mexican way of saying, "Misfortunes never come singly."

The devil is not astute because he is the devil, but because he is old—used to express the value of experience.

When bread is cut, crumbs are left, expressing the fact that we all have a share in our neighbors' good fortune.

After the child is drowned, cover up the well—the Mexican way of saying, "After the horse is stolen, lock the stable."

It is better to go around than to fall down, expressing the fact that it is often better to avoid a difficulty than to try to overcome it.—Chicago Journal.

Would Make Sure About the Soap. A little boy who had been blowing bubbles all the morning, thing of play and suddenly growing serious, said, "Read me that story about heaven; it's the glorious one."

"I will," said the mother, "but first tell me, did you take the soap out of the water?"

"Oh, yes, I'm pretty sure I did."

The mother read the description of the beautiful city, the streets of gold, the gates of pearl. He listened with delight, but when she came to the words, "No one can enter there who is loath or maketh a lie," bounding up, he said:

"I guess I'll go and see about that soap!"—New York Observer.

Entangled in a Live Wire. If a person is tangled in a live electric wire and you want to extirpate him therefrom do not take hold of the victim's hands, as often done in a case of this kind. You will be shocked if you do. Be sure to grab the clothes alone, and then you are safe, and the current cannot reach you. Do not let anything come in contact with your bare hands but his coat and trousers. Of course if you have thick leather gloves on you can handle with impunity the individual in distress.

Appropriate Ending. The thoughtful little boy with the high forehead tied an oblong receptacle made of tin to the dog's tail and watched the animal go tearing down the alley.

"For a Scotch collie," the boy explained to the bystanders, "I thought he wasn't quite as canny as he ought to be."—Chicago Tribune.

Softening It. Bootblot—What do you mean by saying I'm the worst actor you ever saw? Coolly—Well, I've no doubt it did seem rather harsh; but, then, you know, there are so many actors I have never seen!—Boston Transcript.

Irritating Iteration. "I don't see why you call him stupid," he says a clever thing quite often."

"Exactly. He doesn't seem to realize that it should be said only once."—Philadelphia Press.

For the Serious Moment. "I hear he refused to take chloroform when he was operated on."

"Yes; he said he'd rather take it when he paid his bill!"

GREAT SUN SPOTS.

The Furlous Solar Tempests That Mark Their Appearance.

Back in 1843, when the Millerites were looking for the end of the world, there was a great sun spot that to many seemed to lend weight to the Millerites' arguments from the time prophecies in the Bible. For a week in that year there was a sun spot that was visible to the naked eye. It measured 74,510 miles across. On the day of the eclipse in 1853 a spot 107,000 miles in extent was clearly seen. These spots are considered to be storms in the glowing gases that correspond to the atmosphere of this earth. If there were ships on the sun as large as this earth they would be tossed about like autumn leaves in an ocean storm.

These solar spots are most abundant on the two sides of the sun's equator, where they mark something akin to a terrestrial cyclone belt. The center of a cyclone is rarefied and therefore colder. Cold on the sun is darkness. An astronomer says that these cyclones carry down into the depths of the solar mass the cooler materials of the upper layers, formed principally of hydrogen, and thus produce in their center a decided extinction of light and heat as long as the gyration movement lasts. Finally the hydrogen, set free at the base of the whirlpool, becomes heated at this great depth and rises up tumultuously, forming irregular jets, which appear above the chromosphere.

Sun spots often break out or disappear under the eye of the observer. They divide like a piece of ice dropped on the surface of a frozen pond, the pieces sliding off in every direction, or they combine like separate floes driven together into a pack. Sometimes a spot will last for more than 200 days, through six or eight revolutions of the sun. Sometimes a spot will last only half an hour.

"The velocities indicated by these movements," writes Henry White Warren, D. D., "are incredible. An uprush or downrush at the sides has been measured of twenty miles a second, a sideward whirl of 120 miles a second. These tempests are over regions so wide that our own Indian ocean is too small to be used for comparison. As they cease the advancing sides of the spots approach each other at the rate of 20,000 miles an hour. They strike together, and the rising spray leaps thousands of miles into space."—Chicago News.

The Note the Pig Squeaked. Among the musical gifts possessed by Sir Herbert Osakeley, the famous composer, organist and teacher, was an ability to tell offhand the exact pitch and key of any sound he happened to hear. As a boy of four years of age he could, without seeing the keys, name any note or combination of notes played on the piano.

An anecdote which illustrates the musician's perfect perception of pitch is told.

Sir Herbert was staying with his old friend, the bishop of Colchester, at High Wycombe and one day heard a pig squeak.

"G sharp!" at once cried Sir Herbert.

Some one ran to the piano, and G sharp it was!

Gives Health, Vigor and Tone. Herbine is a boon for sufferers from anemia. By its use the blood is quickly regenerated and the color becomes normal. The drooping strength is revived. The languor is diminished. Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. Shirel, Middleborough, Ill., writes: "I have been troubled with liver complaint and poor blood, and have found nothing to benefit me like Herbine. I hope never to be without it. I have wished that I had known of it in my husband's lifetime." 50c. Sold by L. S. Simmons, prescription druggist, Sonoma, Cal.

Thousands of summer people will rusticate in the Sonoma Valley this season. The accommodations will far exceed those of previous years.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for afflictions of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shennick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak. In my extremity a friend advised me to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I think this medicine that I won my seat in the council." This remedy is for sale by Shoultz & Co.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

The great success of this preparation in the relief and cure of bowel complaints has brought it into almost universal use. It cures colic, and when reduced with water and sweetened is pleasant to take. It is equally valuable for children and adults. For sale by Shoultz & Co.

The Winter Route East.

When you think of going East, think of the Texas & Pacific, the true Southern Route, as it is called.

We can plan for you an ideal Winter trip through the fertile San Joaquin Valley or down the picturesque coast line of the southern Pacific via Los Angeles, journeying through the beautiful Orange and Olive groves of southern California, getting a glimpse of the Old World civilization of old Mexico en route and on through the cotton fields of the Southland.

Pullman and Tourist Sleepers to St. Louis and the East; a new and excellent dining car service—meals à la carte; stopovers to visit the famous Hot Springs of Arkansas if desired.

For quotations, sleeper reservations, and all information about your trip, address or call upon Mr. W. J. Stodolski, General Agent, No. 635 Market street, San Francisco. It's not a bit of trouble to answer all your questions.

Thomas at Lookout Mountain.

An anecdote concerning General George H. Thomas, the hero of Chickamauga, was related by a clergyman. He told it to illustrate how the valor of obscure soldiers goes to swell the fame of the great generals. "I sat next General Thomas in a Tennessee train shortly after the battle on Lookout mountain," declared the clergyman, "when a crowd of soldiers on the platform began cheering for 'the hero of Lookout mountain.' 'Stop that confounded noise!' indignantly demanded Thomas of his adjutant. 'I don't know whether these men are in earnest and making a mistake, or whether they are giving me. The fact is, I had had my way the battle would not have been fought. When I heard of the proposed attack it seemed exceedingly foolhardy, and I ordered the plan abandoned, but in spite of me, while I was protesting, the men had stormed and captured those battlements above the clouds.'"

Invaluable for Rheumatism. I have been suffering for the past four years with a severe attack of rheumatism and found that Ballard's Snow Liniment was the only thing that gave me satisfaction. The doctors said he had quins. March 24, 1902. John C. Degnan, Kinsman, Ills. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

It is now almost certain that Mrs. Stanford was not poisoned. She undoubtedly died a natural death.

Safe Cough Medicine for Children. In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by Shoultz & Co.

Cured Consumption. Mrs. B. W. Evans, Charwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago and since we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons, Sonoma, Cal.

The weather still continues pleasant.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism. Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from this painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by Shoultz & Co.

The Best Cough Syrup. S. L. Apple, ex-Probate Judge, Ottawa Co., Kansas, writes: "This is to say that I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup for years, and that I do not hesitate to recommend it as the best cough syrup I have ever used." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.
